

Once upon a time, our Lord and savior entered a boy named Griffin into this wonderful world. Anyways, 21 years later he decided he wanted to go for a PhD in Computer Science from the University of Notre Dame. He ended up going for his undergraduate degree and loved the weather so much that he decided he wanted to stay another 4-5 years. Lastly, if you admit him, you will be guaranteed luck for the next 10 years. Now it is Griffin speaking. This is supposed to be my purpose of intent, so I should probably let you know I intend to do nothing but good. I intend to be a role model for all future PhD students that will follow in my footsteps. I intend to break the barriers of computer science and expand the industry into new dimensions. I intend to be prepared for anything, even speaking in front of congress. I intend to reinvent the wheel. I intend to do anything and everything necessary for my country, the United States of America. I, Griffin Arthur Vincent Laszlo, am prepared for whatever life throws at me. As we all know, this essay is my purpose of intent. I assure you that I have good intentions, and we already know I have a purpose. My purpose is to get a PhD in Computer Science from Notre Dame. To whomever reads this, just know that God loves you (and so do I).

Yours truly,

Future Double Domer,

God Bless America,

God Country Notre Dame,

God Bless Our Troops,

Always thinking of you,

Praying for your good health,

Feel free to text me anytime,

Griffin
